[From the Sandusky Register.]

FIRST RATE GHOST STORY.—We have received the particulars of a recent ghostly interference in the internal arrangements of a family residing on the line of the Sandusky, Dayton and Cincinnati Railroad, which may be interesting to our readers. The names of the parties, or the exact location of the transaction, we do not feel at liberty to publish. A farmer was bereaved of his wife some sixteen years ago, an infant daughter—an only child—being left to console him in his afflictions. The daughter grew up a beautiful and amiable young lady, and not long since did what maidens have done from time immemorial—fell in love. But, unfortunately for her, the young man upon whom she had lavished the wealth of her youthful affections was poor, although worthy of her in every other respect; and when her stern "parient" discovered how matters were drifting, he ordered the distracted daughter to confine herself to her room and her needle-work, and commanded the young man of poor though honest parents never again to darken his door. A stern, unyeilding parent was he; and so satisfied of this fact was the daughter, after a rather intimate acquaintance of about sixteen years, that she uttered not a word of remonstrance, but went quietly into seclusion and decline, pining away after the approved style of disappointment and forlorn maiden-hood. The young men didn't pine, but took a school to teach, exhibiting a commendable degree of energy and perseverence.

About this time a wealthy and miserly old fellow in the neighborhood, who had seen the young lady a few times, and become enamored, made known his flame to the father, directing him to tender to her his hand in connection with a miserable fossil he called his heart. In short, he wished to marry her. The father was in ectacies with the proposed match, as the old man, though old enough to be her grandfather, was known to be immensely rich. The girl, however, treated the proposition with disdain, mingled with a considerable quantiy of disgust, and intirmated that she would "die" first" The father, who was not accustomed to having his authority set at naught in the slightest particular, stormed and raved like a madman, and swore his child should obey him.

Several weeks passed by in which the daughter pined more and more, still firm in her resolve, however; and her father become more and more enraged at what he termed her senseless obstinacy. At length, one day, after a long and private interview with the miserly old lover, the father directed his daughter to prepare herself for the ceremony, as marry she must, that very day, the husband he had chosen for. Then, sealing the command with a big oath, he threw himself upon his horse, standing at the door, and rode away for a magistrate to make the ill-assorted twain one flesh and blood.

After the experition of about an hour, a horse's hoofs were heard coming down the road and into the yard at breakneck speed, and those who ran out of the house saw the farmer hurridly alight, his face covered with a deathly palor. As he stepped upon the threshold of his door he sank down insensible, and he was borne into his room by the affrighted servants.

The wedding did not take place that day; for after recovering from his fainting fit, the farmer was confined to his bed by a long and severe fit of sickness. The daughter nursed him tenderly, and after a hard struggle between life and death the former conquered, and the old man began to recover. He was a changed man however; and one day he told his daughter the cause of his great fright on the day he rode away for a magistrate. He said as he was dashing madly down the road leading to the village, and while passing ing through a bit of woods he was concious of a rustling above his head. At the same time a pair of white arms reached down and caught the bridle from his hands, and as he looked up he saw the form of his dead wife hovering above him, her face, most sad and melancholy, nearly touching his own. The horse wheeled suddenly, as if directed by the ghostly hands upon the bridle rein; and then, as if little less terrified than his rider, went at a frightful rate towards home. The vision remained hovering above him, with its hands upon the reins, untill the horse turned into the yard, when it suddenly vanished.

The story became known, and is firmly believed by all the neighbors. They think the ghost of his wife interfered to save her daughter from the fate which threatened her. It had that effect, at least; for the old miser's visits are no longer received, and the young lover of poor but honest parents is a welcome visitor at the farm-house. The young lady has ceased to pine, and a dress-maker is there at work on an elegant dress, any allusion to which invariably causes the young lady to blush exceedingly. We suspect it is her wedding dress, but don't know.

Inalienable Rights of Americans.

A Wag has made up a summary of what he calls the "Inalienable Rights of Americans," and which are not enumerated in the Declaration of Independence. There is a vein of pointed sarcasm running through it:

To know any trade or business without apprenticeship or experience.

To marry without regard to fortune, state of health, position, or opinion of either parents or friends.

To have a wife and children dependent on the contingencies of business; and in case of sudden death leave them wholly unprovided for.

To put off upon hireling strangers the literary, moral and religious education of children.

To teach children no trade, hoping they will have, when grown up, wit enough to live on the industry of other people.

To enjoy the sympathy when made bankrupt by reckless speculation.

To cheat the government if possible.

To hold office without being competent to discharge its duties.

To build houses with six and nine inch walls, and at the funerals of tenants, firemen, and others, killed by their fall, and weeping over the mysterious dispensation of Providence.

To build up towns and cities without parks, public squares, broad streets, or ventilated blocks, and call pestilence a visitation of God.

A CRUSADE AGAINST CORSETS AND CRINOLINE, BY DR. E. Y. ROBBINS.—Dr E. Y. Robbins delivered a lecture last week at Clinton Hall, New York, on the operations of air, light, and costume upon the health of the female sex. He advocated the improvement of woman's health as a certain means of improving the race. He found a great deal of fault with the costume of the ladies. He especially condemed the use of corsets, commenced as it was in the present age with infantile years, and quoted a celebrated English author to show that even a man, who when not dressed colud inhale 180 cubic inches of air in a given time, could, when dressed, inhale only 130 inches. And of course a greater proportionate difference was observable in woman, by reason of their mode of dress. He contrasted the ravages of cholera with those of consumption, brought on by inattentention to the laws of nature which he now sought to inculcate, and strengthened his augument by the statement that during the cholera season of 1849 there died in the city of New York from that disease 31,506, while in the same year there died from consumptiou no less than 35,516. To show how much more than men women were, from their habits and mode of dress, liable to disease, he asserted that in the same year (1849) 5,640 men died of consumption, while no less than 10,195 females were its victims. Of all the women who have died in the northeastern section of our country, more than one-half died of consumption, and those between the ages of fifteen and twenty years. The lecturer was particularly severe upon the subject of tight lacing, so especially prevelent among American ladies.

He depreciated the practice of depriving girls of the air and exercise so necessary to health, which boys are permitted to partake of; and he was at a loss to know why such a difference should be made in the condition and habits of the, sexes. Speaking of the higher classese with special reference to our own city, he asserted that three-quarters of the young ladies of the upper and wealthier class had some personal deformity, caused by this inattention to the most rational laws of health, or by an over-anxiety to reduce the circumferences of the waist. The truth of his assertions were proved by a reference to the ancient Greeks, who, even now, after the lapse of cenuries, were the models of form received by painters and sculptors; and he instanced also the Circassians and Gegorians, who had never yet learned the mystery of corsets. Light, the lecturer contended, which was so much denied to women on account of their constant in-door confinement, was of the utmost importance in the developement of health and strength A plant or shrub grown in the shade never displayed the same amount of color or strength as those which enjoy the light of the sun, and he claimed that if the ladies of this country would preserve their health and retain their beauty, they must use more of air and sunlight. In England a woman was in the prime of her attractions at the age of 35, and gradually but beautfully faded away, while in this country at 25 a woman had reached her prime, and at 35 had begun to fade. He dwelt upon the responsibility of a mother. She must either be the giver of health, vitality, and strength, or else the dispenser of desease and degeneration, and a knowledge of this fact should inculcate in woman a sense of her responsibility.

THE THREE FIGHTING DEACONS of GEAUGA.—In a small neighborhood in Geauga county lived three deacons. The first is a Methodist, the second a Presbyterian, and the third a Baptist. All live quite a distance from their respective meeting-houses, and as the traveling is excessively bad at this time of year, they concluded to hold meetings in the little red school-house in the neighborhood, The question then arose which denomination should hold the first meeting. The Methodist claimed the privilege of opening. The Presbyterian demaded it. The Baptist insisted on it. Here was "a fix."

The wrangled over the matter until the dander of each deacon arose to fever heat, and each vowed he would hold a meeting at the red-school-house the very next evening, which happened to be Friday last, and on that evening, at early candlelight, the school-house was crowded with Methodists, Presbyterians, and Baptists, and several world's people.

The Presbyterian commenced reading a catechism. The Baptist at the same time arose and commenced reading a tract on immersion. The Methodist at the same time struck up an old-fashion hymn, shouting it forth at the top of his lungs. The effect was ludicrous. It apparently struck the mixed congregation so, for they all commenced laughing. The Baptist was wheezy. He sank exhausted into his seat, while the Presbyterian and Methodist continued. All at once the ludicrousness of the scene struck the Baptist, and he indulged in a protracted horse laugh. This displeased the Presbyterian and forgetting himself, he dealt the Baptist a stunning blow under the right ear. The Methodist threw his hymn book down and rushed to the Baptist's rescue. He arrived just in time to receive the Presbyterian's iron fist between his eyes. The Baptist and Methodist rallied, and together attacked the Presbyterian, but he was too much for them. The scene that ensued beggars the description. Chairs were overturned. Window glass were broken. Women shrieked. Men yelled. We have no wish for of an affair which has caused profound regret among the religious people of Geauga We merely relate the facts. The matter is in litigation.—Cleveland (Ohio) Plaindealer

THE RECIPROCATED AFFECTION.—A dandy married an heiress, who, although very accomplished, was by no means, handsome. One day he said to her:

"My dear, as ugly as you are, I love you as well as though you were pretty."

"Thank you, love," was the reply; "I can return the compliment, for fool as you are, I love you as well as though you had wit."

The Sequel to the Diamond Wedding. I won't vouch for the accuracy of it, but rumor is loud that the lady of Diamond Wedding has come back again—that she found her lord and master testy, bad-tempered, and penurious—that the now due installment on the Fourteenth street house has not been paid, and that all round something "is to pay generally." Not having the fear of either the Cuban or the Father-in-law before my eyes, I send you the tale afloat for what it is worth.—N. Y. cor. Boston Journal.

AT what age should a girl marry?—When she has had enough of flirting, knows how to get a decent dinner, and has made up her mind to accept the trials, as well as pleasures of her new relations, whatever they be, with that fortitude a good woman always manages to muster.

A downeast editor says he has seen the contrivance our lawyers use when they "warm up with the subject" He says it was a glass concern, and held about a pint.

THE young woman who was "driven to distraction," now fears she will have to walk back.

WHY was Herodioas the fastest woman of her day? Because she got a head of John the Baptist on a charger.

As a man drinks he generally grows reckless. In his case, the more drams the fewer scruples.

"YOU seem to walk more erect than usal my friend." Yes, I have been straightened by circumstances.

AT what time of day was Adam created? A little before Eve.

SATURDAY, MAY 26TH, 1860.

Cemetery Meeting.

At the request of several Citizens of this place, there will be held a Meeting at the School House, on Saturday next, June 2nd, at 4 o'clock, p.m. for the purpose of taking some action in the premises in relation to the Cemetery for this place. As we have heretofore at divers times fully and unequivocally expressed ourself upon this subject we deemed it both useless and superfluous to make any comments on the subject. We hope that the meeting may be well attended by all that feel an interest in the matter.

By the steamer which left San Francisco on Monday morning last, there were sent 21,298 letters, and by the Overland Mail 3,745, of which 200 were way letters. Last Friday over 12,000 letters were forwarded by the Overland Mail.

The San Jose Railroad.—This project has failed for the reason that the Commissioners did not open their books within one month for subscription.

Calhoun Benham, of San Francisco, has been appointed and confirmed as the United States District Attorney for the Northern District of California, vice Pierre de la Torre, resigned.

Seven plans have been submitted to the Commissioners for the building of the New State Capitol.

The Petaluma Argus has been discontinued, and will probably appear, after an intermission, as a Republican Journai.

David T. Bagley has been appointed by Governor Downey Reporter of the Supreme Court.

The amount of money in the State Treasury, at the close of business, May 19, was $534,705.

The San Francisco and Marysville Railroad.

The Directors of the San Francisco and Marysville Railroad Company have put forth a statement of the condition, financial and otherwise, of the Company and road. From this, it appears that there hat been subscribed to the work the sum of $626,700, viz.: $226,700 in individual subscriptions, $200,000 in Yuba county bonds, and $200,000 in Solano county bonds. In addition to this sum, its resources are stated to be 60,000 acres of swamp lands, donated by the State, and valued at $10 per acre—$600,000; 1600 acres of land and a half mile of water front on the Straits of Carquinez, valued at $1,000,0000; other donations at Marysville and along the route, $150,000—or a grand total (on paper) of $2,376,700.

The Company has entered into a contract with C. D. Haskins for constructing and equiping the road from Vallejo to Marysville, for the sum of $3,500,000, to be paid as the road progresses, thus: $1,500,000 in the bonds of the Company, secured by mortgage on all the property; $1,500,000 in full paid stock of the Company, and $500,000 in cash. The resources are not worth one-fourth of what they are valued at—not more, perhaps, than one-tenth. Yet the road may be constructed and the rolling stock purchased even on so small a capital. There is not telling what energy may accomplish. We hope for the best.—Bee.

The rate of taxation in San Francisco for 1860 is $2 85 on each $100. Less then ever before.

County Court.

Munch vs. Miller—Appeal from Justice McCarty. L. R. Hopkins, attorney for respondent, moved to dismiss Appeal for want of a statement as the law directs,—Motion over-ruled and the case went to trial, the jury after hearing the evidence and instructions of the Court, returned a verdict for the Appellant for $29, and that Respondent recover his costs.—Upon motion of Mr. Griffith, appellants attorney, all that part of the verdict in relation to costs was stricken out, respondents attorney then moved to set aside the verdict and set the case again for trial—motion made the first order of business for the next meeting of the court.

Williams vs. White, appeal from Justice Cole—Judgment for respondents for costs.

Rhodes vs. Van Vleet, et. al., appeal from Justice Carpenter—L. R. Hopkins, attorney for appellants, moved to reverse the judgment in the Court below, and dismiss the case for the following reasons:

1st, because suit was brought out of the township in which Appellants reside.

2nd, that Respondent pleads no force in his declaration, either in the entry or the detention.

3rd, that it appears for the transcript of the Justice below, that appellants made and filed an affidavit in the Court below, that they could not have a fair and impartial trial before him, because of his prejudice and bias, and the Court refused to send the case away as required by law.

Motion over-ruled—This, as a matter of practice is an important ruling, by it the following points are settled.

1st, That in an action of forcible entry, the jurisdiction of a Justice of the Peace is co-extensive with the limits of his County.

2nd, That a party can sustain the action without alledging any force whatever, either in the entry or the detainer.

3rd, That it is discretionary with a Justice whether he grants a change of Venue or not, where the party makes affidavit that they cannot have a fair trial before him by reason of his prejudice and bias.

Judgment for Respondents, for restitution and $125 damages—and Defendants fined $20.

Houston Meeting at New York.

Last night a large meeting of the friends of General Houston, from all parts of the Union, was held at the Metropolitan Hotel New York. The Baltimore and Charleston Convention were repudiated, and a determination expressed that the people should make their own choice for President.

Salute at Detroit.

Last night a salute was fired at Detroit, in honor of the nomination of John Bell and Edward Everett, and also on the occasion of the return of the Charleston delegates. A large approbationary meeting was held.

The Union Baltimore Convention.

This body assembled May 9th. Every State but South Carolina and Oregon was present. Many strangers present.

John J. Crittenden, of Kentucky, called the Convention to order in the midst of prolonged cheering.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. McCabe.

Washigton Hunt, of New York was elected President of the Convention, and delivered a powerful address.

Committees on permanent Organization and on Credentials were appointed, when a recess was taken till four o'clock.

When the Convention reasembled, Washington Hunt was elected permanent President, and one Vice President for each State was elected.

A motion was made to proceed to ballot for a candidate for the Presidency. After some debate—

Harris, of Missouri, moved that a committee be selected to prepare a declaration of principles.

The motion was strongly opposed by several speakers.

Leslie Coombs, of Kentucky, ridiculed all the platforms; all they needed was "the Constitution as it is, and the Union, now and forever."

Hopkins, of Georgia, suggested that the platform in one word be Houston, of Texas, the Hero of San Jacinto.

Brooks of New York, opposed any platform but the Constitution and laws. He moved the appointment of a Committee to prepare the business of the Convention. Adopted. The Convention then adjourned to the next day.

The Convention reassembled at ten o'clock.

The Committee then reported the following resolution:

Whereas, Experience has demonstrated that all platforms are calculated to mislead and cause political dissentions, encouraging geographical and sectional parties.

Resolved, That both patriotism and duty require that they should recognize no policy or principles but those resting on the broad foundations of the Constitution of the country, the union of the States, and the enforcement of the laws [Great applause.] To this position the Constitution and Union party pledge themselves.

The resolution was adopted by acclamation.

A discussion arose on another resolution reported, as to the manner of voting, which recommends that each State should determine its own mode.

It was finally settled that the Chairman of each delegation cast its vote in accordance with the instructions of different districts in the State.

After the adoption of several preliminary motions, Barrett, of Minnesota, asked to be excused from voting, as he was only a proxy.

The Convention then proceeded to ballot for President.

Bell, of Tennessee had 68½.
Houston, of Texas, 57.
Crittenden, of Kentucky, 28.

John Bell was nominated on the Second ballot, and the nomination declared unanimous. [Tremendous cheers.]

Henry, of Tennessee, grandson of Patrick Henry, in the name of his State thanked the Convention for honor conferred.

Sharkey, of Mississippi, followed.

A recess was taken till five o'clock.

When it reassembled, Switzler moved to nominate Edward Everett for Vice President. [Applause.]

He was nominated by acclamation.

Hillard, of Massachusetts, in behalf of Everett, accepted the nomination.

Several enthusiastic speeches were made.

Resolutions were adopted for the permanent organization of the party.

The Convention then adjourned sine die.

Ratification meetings were to have been held the same night at Monument Square, but on account of the weather they were postponed until the next night.

[For the News.]

We occasionally find a good thing in the way of Judges charges—in Arkansas and Pike—but the following charge given to a Jury in a very recent case by one of the learned Judges of the Golden State, eclipses them all.

The case was briefly as follows:—The Plaintiff declared upon an entire contract for labor for six months, alledging that he had performed part of the labor according to the terms of the contract, but had been prevented from performing the whole by the wrongful acts of the Defendant, and claimed the entire contract.

The Judge submitted the case to the jury with the following charge—"If you believe from the evidence adduced before you Gentlemen of the Jury, A'hem! that plaintiff was willing to perform his part of the contract, but was prevented from so doing by the defendant, then Gentlemen of the Jury this is for you to determine from the evidence adduced before you—A'hem! As I was going to say Gentlemen of the Jury—A'hem! you will at once perceive the facts being proven by the evidence adduced before you, then Gentlemen of the Jury this is for you to determine from the evidence adduced before you, then Gentlemen of the Jury you will find for the Plaintiff—but, if on the other hand Gentlemen of the Jury, you should find that Defendant did not prevent Plaintiff from performing his contract, it will be then for you to determine, but Gentlemen of the Jury if on the other hand you should find Plaintiff was so prevented, then as I before remarked you will find for Plaintiff, but if not Gentlemen of the Jnry—A'hem! it is your peculiar province—A'hem! but on the other hand as I remarked before Gentlemen of the Jury—the fact being proven by the evidence adduced before you; if you so find then your verdict will be for the Plaintiff—but if you do not so find, then Gentlemen of the Jury it is for you to determine.

A CARD.

To the Citizens of Knight's Landing and vicinity.

Whereas, One Marvin Sellers, a Saddler by trade and citizen of this place has both publicly and privately circulated the report throughout this part of the country that I was a Cattle thief, thrt, I and my family stole Cattle on the Plains when I was on my way to this State last Summer, and he has also circulated other slanderous reports against my daughter, Clarissa, of too indelicate and grossly obscene a nature to put in print—and whereas each and every allegation thereof are notoriously and infamously false in every inception thereof; and whereas he has utterly failed to substantiate the same by any authority whatever. I therefore pronounce the same and every part thereof an infamous, wilful, malicious, wicked and unmitigated falsehood, concocted and made up in his own wicked malicious and mendacious heart, to injure me and family. I, do, now challenge him to bring proof thereof or forever acquiese in being branded as a liar and scoundrel.

☞ All Communications written with the view of publication, must be handed in on Monday's and Thursday's.

Later from Arizona.

In the Arizonian of May 10th we find the following:

The provisional Government of Arizona had appointed some four or five gentlemen to recruit a Company of Rangers. Among others, James H. Tivis, of Mesilla. The new Governor has worked worthily thus far:

The election for county officers in Tueson county, held on the 7th May, passed off quietly. F. A. Neville and C. C. Dodson, the candidates for Probate Judge and Sheriff, received the entire vote cast.

The returns received from Tubac and Calabesas show an unanimous vote for the location of the county seat at Tueson, and also for county and precinct officers.

The Apaches had been committing depredations near Fort Fillmore, and had driven some cattle from San Augustine Spring. There were becoming more troublesome than for several years past.

The difficulty heretofore existing between J. Howard Wells, editor of the Arizonian, and Edward E. Cross, of Tubac, has been amicably adjusted to the friends of both parties.

On Wednesday night. May 9th a bold but unsuccessful attempt was made to assassinate Thomas Smith, an old resident of Tueson, by two Mexicans who had been living here for the past few months. It is supposed, from the fact of their having been seen prowling about throughout the evening, it was their intention to seek an opportunity of waylaying Smith; but not succeeding, about twelve o'clock at night they came when he was seated near a bivouac fire, in company with some soldiers and citizens, when one of them (Manuel Ortiz) fired a navy six-shooter, the ball of which plowed up the ground near Smith's feet. A general firing commenced, Smith drawing his revolver in self-defense, and succeeded in driving them off after severely woundiug Ortiz, who received a ball in his arm. Smith escaped uninjured.

The Stephenson silver mine, under the superintendence of Major Sprague, is being rapidly developed. The furnaces are finished, and smelting will commence in a few days. The ore is of increasing richness. Major Sprague has been requested by his Excellency Governor L. S. Owings, on the part of the Provisional Government, to quarry a block of the ore from San Jose vein, for the Washington Monument. The Governor and Government in prospective are deservedly popular in this portion of the Territory.

IMPORTANT SUIT TO DISSOLVE PARTNERSHIP.—A suit was commenced in the Fourth District Court on Saturday last, by William L. Youle against John T. Thomas, George S. and John T. Wright, Jr. By the complaint it seems that in October, 1849, the plaintiff and Thomas Wright had fitted up the steamer West Point, at New York, for San Francisco; that afterwards Captain J. T. Wright and John T. Wright, Jr., each purchased an interest in her; that by arrangement between the parties, Captain Wright took full charge of the steamer at Panama and brought her up to San Francisco, where she was employed for several years. The complaint states that about the 21st of November, 1851, Captain Wright made a settlement with her other owners to that date, since which time, the steamers Sea Bird, Goliah, America, Brother Jonathan and Pacific, were purchased by the parties, at various dates, and all employed in the coast trade, under the sole direction of Captain Wright, and all have been either lost or sold by him, the two latter having been sold to the California Steam Navigation Company in November, 1858; that five-eights of the steamer Hermann and some real estate were afterwards purchased with some of the proceeds of the sale; that Captain Wright has not rendered any account of the doings of said vessels or of their sale, nor either of them, since the above date of 1851. The plaintiff brings suit to dissolve the copartnership and get a settlement, claiming that the partnership is indebted some $80,000 to him.—Bulletin.

AN AFRICAN PRINCE IN LONDON.—Anamboo, an African prince, visiting England, received so many attentions from a celebrated belle of London, that, in a moment of tenderness he could not refrain from laying his hand on his heart and exclaiming:

"Oh! madam, if Heaven had only made you a negress, you would have been irresistible."

WOOL.—Wool continues to come in for shipment to San Francisco, where it is assorted and forwarded to New York. The last quotations of California, in that market, are 28 to 30c. for choice, and 10 to 12c. for common.

THE Republicans of Marysville, have it is said, raised $3,500 for the purpose of starting a daily paper there.

KNIGHT'S LANDING NEWS.

Letter from Lady Franklin.

The following beautiful and touching letter from Lady Franklin has been addressed to the Bambridge Crozier Memmoral Committee' in reply to a splendidly illuminated address of condolence and sympathpy to her ladyship, enclosed in a handsome case:

Gentlemen: I receive with profound gratitude and respect the tribute with which you have kindly thought fit to honor me. In language most touching and eloquent you assure me that it has seemed to you, the friends and countrymen of the lamented Captain Crozier, that you could not fitly honor the dead—him who was the worthy companion and sharer in Franklin's sufferings and glory—without expressing to me also (the widow of the one and the admiring friend of the other) your deep sympathy and condolence.

I find it hard indeed to express how deeply I am moved by this kind and honorable association, and consolatory it is to me to know that you deem worthy of approbation those humble efforts which were prompted by the irresistable impulses of affection, and sustained by a deep sense of duty, but with no consciousness of any merit whatever belonging to them.

I have had occasion to say in past years, in reference to the discouragements you have alluded to, as well as to the support which cheered me on, that my heart was too full to be either oppressed by the obloquy or raised by the praise. Yet now, when all is over, and when the event has justified or excused the means, it may, perhaps, be forgiven me to share in some degree the glowing and generous elation of others—a chastened and subdued elation, however, in my own case, as that of one who cannot forget that the praise bestowed upon herself is greater, far greater, than she deserves, and that it has been gained in a cause over which too many bitter tears have been shed, and around which too many sad memories must ever linger, to permit of selfish gratulations.

The triumph, however, which it is impossible for me to feel for myself, I will not deny that I feel for the glorious martyrs of the lost Erebus and Terror, and also for him, your noble countryman, the brave conmander of the Fox, to whose self-devotion, ability and perseverance it is owing that the fate of our loved friends has been assertained, and crowned with the applause of a generous and sympathising country.

It is more than a consolation or a comfort—it is a cause for rejoicing—that the two leaders of the lost expedition did not persist in vain; for, though my dear husband was not permitted to enter those waters of promise, which had all but sighted his ship, and though the undaunted Crozier, in succeeding to the chief command, was compelled to abandon his vessel before the opposing barrier of ice had yielded to his yearnings, yet virtually, as well as to the satisfaction of all competent navigators and geographers, they accomplished the work on which they had been sent, and solved the problem of centuries, Henceforth, the name of Franklin and Crozier, as the discoverers of the North-west Passage, will never be disunited.

It remains for me only to express to you my great admiration of the beautiful illuminations of that honorable document, to which I have so imperfectly responded, and of the splendid case in which you have enclosed it. As works of art their execution does honor to the country and to the artist who produced them. But they have been designed also with a sentiment and a thoughtful consideration for which I cannot be too grateful. The names is dear to you and to me could not be more gracefully and worthily honored than in being surrounded by those of the faithful and noble minded Fitzjames, of the brave officers of the Fox expedition, and of the gallant men who had previously perrilled their lives in the Arctic search. I learn with great interest and gratification that these beautifnl and signficant illuminations are the work of a nephew of Captain Crozier, which cannot fail to enhance their value in my eyes.

Accept, gentlemen, my warmest acknowledgements for this maguificent gift, and be assured that it will be carefully cherished by me as long as I live, and transmitted as a precious heirloom to my husband's family.

JANE FRANKLIN.

A CALIFORNIA INCIDENT.—The denouement of one of those thousand and one singnlar incidents which life in California is constantly developing, occurred in Scott Valley one day last week. Mr. Marky left New York in the year 1849 bound for California. He also left a wife and two small children, a little girl of five years and a boy of three. Last week his family joined him in Scott Valley, after a seperation of eleven years. The vicissitudes of a California life had furrowed the father's brow; his hair which was of raven hue whe, with bright hopes and ardent expectations, he bid farewell to his wife and children and set out for the golden land, is now thickly interspersed with silver hue. The little girl is just budding womanhood, and the baby has almost reached man's estate. So long has it been since they parted, and so changed was he that the wife, when they met, failed to recognize the beloved features of him who, seventeen years ago, had placed the wedding ring upon her finger.—Yreka Journal.
